THE CONTINUATION OF BRAGG'S FLIGHT.-Wood's wagon train at Cox's Creek, on Sun- | now commands the 9th army corps. day night, collected his force of fifteen hundred cavalry together and passed down in the direction of Elizabethtown, crossing the Lebano Branch road at Boston yesterday afternoon. Boston is five miles from the Junction and twelve miles from Bardstown, at the point at which the Petersburg road crosses the Lebanon Branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

Our informant, who was at Boston when the rebel cavalry passed through, says that he saw a buggy in the cavalcade in which a wounded man was riding, and that the rebels said it was occupied by "Morgan." It was the opinion there that the Morgan referred to was John Morgan, but our informant thinks the wounded man was Sam Morgan, the brother of the bandit chief, the former having been wounded in the skirmish at Lexington on Saturday evening.

The commander of the expedition, while at Boston, announced his determination to go at once to Munfordville with his force. It is known that the party halted at Elizabethtown last night, as the telegraph line, which they cut on Monday, has been repaired, and we are to-day in communication with Bowling Green.

The rebel cavalry committed no depredations at Elizabethtown, but destroyed the bridge over Valley Creek, two miles beyond Elizabethtown, last night. The bridge which was destroyed is about two hundred feet in length, but is not more than ten feet in height, and can be repaired to an extent that will admit the passage of trains by to-morrow or the next day. Superintendent Marshall has a strong force employed at the locomotive works upon the timbers for the bridge, a portion of which will be sent down this

A train of cars was sent down from this city to Elizabethtown this morning, and returned, reporting everything right on the road as far down as Elizabethtown.

A train, in command of Capt. Fish Henry, which left this city yesterday morning for Bowling Green, arrived there in safety. Re-

We learn by telegraph from Shepardsville to-day that the railroad bridge at that point remains unharmed.

THE FIGHT AT LEXINGTON ON SATURDAY We have had vague accounts of the fight at Lexington on Saturday. The following statement by a member of the Fourth Ohio cavalry is full, and bears evidence of plausibility: Co. H, of the 4th Ohio Cavalry, under Lieut-Shoemaker, and numbering fifty-five men, was stationed in Lexington acting as Provost Guards. Companies A, B, and C were in camp on the Clay farm, about a mile and a half from the city, the only officers with them being Capt. Robey, of company A, and Lieut.

Henry. They numbered some 300 men. About half-past five in the morning, Captain Robey ordered the men to saddle. They were in the act of doing so when a large body of Morgan's cavalry dashed in upon hem, having captured the pickets. The Captain ordered the men into line of battle, Lieut. Henry throwing out his men as skirmishers. Morgan had about 3,000 men and three pieces of artillery, which were brought up and played effectually upon our forces. Morgan detached a portion of his command and sent them to the left and rear, and coming up they poured a volley into the Federals. Capt. Robey, seeing that he was surrounded, and that resistance was useless, surrendered. We lost six killed and as many wounded. render two of the Federal cavalry were shot in a stable, but not killed. A number of Morgan's men were wounded, but how many our informant cannot state. Morgan took the horses, arms, haversacks, blankets, &c., from our cavalry, paroled them, and immediately dashed into Lexington, capturing the Provost Guard, and serving them in the same manner, and without stopping any length of time, moved off on the Versailles turnpike. By this operation he secured about 350 horses, with all their equipments, as many prisoners, and the arms and accoutrements of the men. We are a little curious to know where the officers of the companies encamped on the Clay farm were during this time. Why were they not with their com-

Morgan is a thickset, well-formed man, weighing about 175 pounds, dark complexion, and wearing a moustache and whiskers with a sandy tinge. He wore a plain suit of grey cloth, without any distinctions of rank, patent leather jack boots, and mounted on a superb horse. His men were rough, uncouth daredevils, very coarse in their language, and rude in their treatment of prisoners.

They carry nothing but their arms, which are first class, and their blankets-no haversacks, or any other incumbrance, and live upon the country through which they pass. Their horses are of the best blood, fleet, enduring, and well cared for. They fight recklessly, travel rapidly, and do an immense deal of mischief. The officers generally stay with the

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH BRIGADE, In the Field, near Claysville, Ky., October 3d, 1862. Capt. J. E. Stearns, A. A. Gen. Sir: In obedience to your orders of last right I have made a reconnoissance ten miles the front, and have the honor to now report

you the result.

I left Shelbyville at 7½ A. M. to-day with my command, consisting of the 34th Illinois volunteers, Lieut. Col. Bristol; 29th Indiana volunteers, Major Collins; 30th Indiana, Col. Dodge; 77th Pennsylvania volunteers, Col. Stumbaugh; 93d Obio, Colonel Anderson; Captain Edgarton's battery of 1st Obio artillery; and four companies of the 9th Kentucky cavalry, under command of Colonel Jacobs.

We came up to the enemy's outposts, consisting of small squads of cavalry, at a point about three miles from Shelbyville, but upon our approach they fell back from point to point towards their main body without making any resistance.

resistance. We reached Claysville, six miles from Shelbyville, at 10 A. M., and there learned that the rebel force, consisting of Scott's 1st Geor-gia and Nixon's 1st Louisiana cavalry, and a brigade of North Carolina infantry, and four howitzers, were at that time drawn up in line Bowling Green, arrived there in safety. Returning, it came up as far as Elizabethtown, but was ordered back to Bowling Green. Capt. Henry reported his train again at Munfordville at noon to-day, and he was ordered to remain there and await further instructions. left, a half battery of artillery in position on the left of the road commanding the turnpike for some distance to the front. The other alf battery in a good position on the right, a ittle retired. pected; I had scarcely completed it when the rebel cavalry came thundering down the road upon us. A few minutes before I had seen a detachment of the rebels, concealed by a ra-vine on the left of the road, dashed upon them on the flank and rear. Colonel Jacobs, with remarkable coolness and presence of mind, extricated his small force from their perilous osition, and fell back to the skirmish line in continued to advance under a murderous fire of shell and musketry from my lines, seeming determined to make a desperate stand. They tought bravely, but could not longer endure the steady charge of our veteran troops. They first wavered, and then, as if penic stricken,

They succeeded however in carrying off the most of their killed and wounded. Jacobs's cavalry pursued them closely, and their flight was still further hastened by the splendid practice of Edgarton's artillery. The enemy seemed to have over estimated our strength. dinsville to Frankfort, and by their exaggers ted report of their defeat hastened the evacus tion of that place. Your orders only allowed me to advance to Claysville, and to reconnoi-tre a short distance to the front; and as I had now driven the enemy four miles beyond this point, I called back the pursuit and returned to Claysville. Our loss is one slightly wound and three of Jacobs's cavalry taken pri soners; they had rashly dashed up to the rebel lines, far in advance of their command, and hence were captured. We had no others missing and none killed. The rebel loss greatly exceeded ours, but as they carried off early all their killed and wounded, I cannot state it with certainty. I learn from citizens that a number were carried off in wagons after the fight; that they buried seven near Hardinsville, two miles beyond our advance; buried one. They admit their loss in killed and wounded to be fifty-two.

I have taken the following prisoners which I have taken the following prisoners which I forward you: Two lieutenants, one color sergeant, thirteen privates—in all sixteen.

Only a small portion of my force was actually engaged, but the dispositions I ordered were all made as smoothly and promptly as on the drill ground. Every officer and man was at his post; each did his alloted work, and at their head, behaved splendidly; the balance of my command fully sustained the character they had already won on other battle-fields

I can give them no higher praise than to say that they each behaved to-day as they did at Shiloh. My little escort, under command of Sergeant Shanklin, also behaved nobly. Very respectfully your obedient servant, Col. E. N. KIRK. Commander of 5th Brigade, 2d Division.

HISTORY OF THE INDIAN DIFFICULTIES St. Paul, Oct. 7, 1862. Our Indian difficulties have already bee agnified to that degree which gives the pec oon be enabled to inaugurate a border w hat, in pecuniary expenditure and liability vill assume some of the respectable proposons of the Potomac and enable Gen. Pop s soon as the snow is ten or twelve feet do announce to the War Department

The cause and progress of our Indian diffi-culties we propose to detail in a brief manner: At the treaty of Travers-de-Sioux, in 1851, e Sioux nation ceded to the United State I their lands situate upon the west side of the Mississippi, extending west so far as to includhie lands of the Yanktons, dissectons, and Yank-to-nays—tribes that belong to the con

upper waters of the Minnesota. These tribe refused to join in the treaty of Travers-de Sioux. In 1855 the Yank-to-nays appeared

In 1857, the Yank-to-nays and a portion of the Yanktons and Sissetons appeared at the payment at the Yellow Medicine Agency, numbering about 8,000 warriors, well armed vith a good supply of ammunition, and hreatened to destroy the Agency. Captain Sherman (now Gen. T. W. Sherman) was a that time in command of the United State orces at the Agency, which consisted of three companies of infantry, and the celebrated Sherman Battery. Capt. Sherman drew up his forces in line of battle, and asked permis ion of the agent to open fire upon then wearing that he could annihilate them i wenty minutes. The Indians marched within a few feet of his guns, and swung the mahawks and scalping knives above their eads, and shook their rifles in his face, an heads, and shook their rifles in his face, and dared him to fire, telling him he would never load his guns the second time.

The Agent positively refused to let Sherman fire, and succeeded in quieting them by promising to lay their grievances before Congress. Accordingly, in 1858, Congress appropriated $35,000 worth of goods as a quieting present to these disaffected bands. These goods were transported by the Covernment to a point the Yellow Medicine Agency. Here the Indians appeared, and refused to hold any talk the Tellow Medicine Agency. Here the Indians appeared, and refused to hold any talk with the Agent. After holding a council among themselves, the chiefs marched up to the presents, spit upon them, and then turned their backs upon the Agent and left with all their people. The Agent returned with the goods to the Yellow Medicine Agency.

Here all the difficulties rested, until the recent outbreak, except the foray of Ink-paduta at Spirit Lake. Ink-pa-duta is an outlaw—a roving bandit of the prairie. His band consists of about 200 warriors, all of whom

He belong to the Yank-to-nays—that is, he was born

Tank-to-nay.

The difficulty now existing is with the Yank-to-nays, including a portion of the Sissetons, and Yanktons. Ink-pa-duta is be lieved to be now with them. In the destruction of the Janks of the Lower Agency, he had his emissaries among them. The fir murder committed by the Indians was i place in the afternoon, two whisky trade being killed. Whose fault is this? Some-body is to blame, and I hold that the blame should rest upon the authorities at Washington. In this naked, starved out, and destitute condition, without shoes, hats, clothes, or tents, they are ordered into Northwestern Virginia.

The two Kentucky and one Indiana regi ment have had friends to interfere on their behalf, and they are allowed to come back home to fight for their own firesides. But the poor East Tennesseeans have no friends who can be heard or respected in their behalf. They are now ordered into these ice-bound mountains of Virginia, to be starved out, frozen to death and butchered by superior forces, without money, clothes, or tents. I predict a general rebellion and revolt, and hope it may come, if they are forced into Virginia. There seems to be in certain quarters parties in the North. The truth of the matter It is imagined by some that the contest in bracing, as constituent elements, the Demo- late order of exercises. cratic party, the Old-line Whig party, and the the latter embracing, in like manner, the abolition party, the radical wing of the Republican party, and the contractors, hirelings, and

These are the two grand combinations, which, under different names, are arrayed the respective names of the People's party and the Republican party; in New York, under the respective names of the Democratic party and the Union party; and, in Michigan, under the respective names of the Union party and the Republican party; the conservative party thus being known in one State by the appointed by the result of the Kentucky camappellation which the radical party bears in another, though the basis, aim, and constitu- much more so. We have not captured or overtion of the two parties are respectively the same in all the States. The Union party | tion was in the length and suppleness of its in Michigan, the Democratic party in New York, and the People's party in Massachusetts, are but sections or branches of the great con- to get into a fight as our fleeing rebels strained servative party of the North, as the Republican party in Massachusetts and in Michigan and the Union party in New York are but action which Buell's irresistible army ough sections or branches of the radical party. This now to adopt, but all will agree that such a diversity of names, which has arisen from the tremendous body of men, kept together at diverse manner in which the elements of the such immense cost of treasure and life, should, respective parties in the different States have | with the least delay practicable, strike a ter been combined or have combined themselves, implies no diversity of principle or of purpose. The conservative party, under whatever name is the same party; and this is equally true of

The Democratic party, therefore, although a conservative party, is not strictly the conservative party of the North; it is but the chief and most powerful element of the conservative party, which rests on a basis not more Democratic than Whig or Republican, and on which Democrats, Whigs, and Republicans alike may stand and do stand with perfect consistency. The contest in the North, as we have said, is not strictly between the Democratic party and the Republican party, but between the conservative party and the radical party, to which the Democratic party and the bulk of the Repubican party stand respectively in the relation of constituent elements. For this reason, the victories gained in the elections of the 14th instant are not Democratic victories but conservative victories, though, we gratefully own, the Democratic party, as the principal element of the conservative party, bore the lion's part in the achievement, and if the individuality of the different constituents of the conservative party is still to be kept up, it deserves the lion's share of the glory. But we think it would be unwise longer to keep up this individuality. We trust it will not be

The Democratic party, briefly to illustrate this point, is not more the conservative party than the Whig party was the American party, though the Whig party constituted the bulk of the one as the Democratic party constitutes that of the other, and, pray, what would have been thought of the discretion or discernment of an American of Whig antecedents who had seriously claimed a victory won by the American party as a Whig victory? The impropriety and impolicy of such a claim are anifest to every mind. And the claim that the recent victories of the conservative party are Democratic victories is such a claim in a more aggravated torm, inasmuch as the interests at stake, which may be prejudiced if not perilled by such a claim, are of transcendent sacredness and worth. We accordingly hope that this claim will not be pressed in any make the most of it; but let no conservative as it seems to us, is dictated by propriety and prudence, and we rejoice to see a generous disposition on the part of the Democratic conservatives in general to pursue such a course.

We question not, that, if the true view in this particular had been presented more gen erally and more carefully in the canvass which preceded the late elections, the conservative victory would have been much greater even than it is. In Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana, the conservative party, as is well known, was in the recent canvass popularly styled the Democratic party, and, while we cannot think the undoubted prestige of that ancient name was necessary to secure the fellowship of Democrats themselves, we are convinced hat thousands and thousands of conservative Republicans in each of these great States vere repelled by the Democratic name and by the handle the unscrupulous radicals contrived to make of it. We do not doubt that each of these numerous thousands, almost persuaded, like Agrippa, and yet, like Juliet faltering at a name, oftentimes in the course of that eventful canvass felt like exclaiming to the conservative party with the Democratic name as the fair Capulet apostrophized her lover beneath the moonlight of Verona:

And for that name, which is no part of thee. We acknowledge that to be governed by such trifles is neither wise nor manly, bu anhappily wisdom and manliness are precisely the qualities in which the mass of men are deficient. If we would influence them, we aust deal with them as they are. Besides, is not equally unwise and unmanly to insist obstinately on a name which is not proper in itself and whose odium deserved or undeserved epels greater numbers than its charm attracts? We understand how the Democratic name, by the Confederacy, though blood and treasure mbalmed in so many stirring associations, is lear to Democrats, and we honor the feeling sion has, therefore, proved a perfect failure which moves them to cherish the loved ship boleth; but when this feeling prompts them, without any very searching regard for the public consequences, to insist on applying the Demof the dire emergencies of the country, it U.S. Generals except Pope. point we have here dwelt upon will in itself in the Crittenden resolutions over the radical make the conservative party many thousands ism involved in the Abolition measures of the stronger in the elections of November than it last session of Congress, and culminating in has proved in those of October. Our sole purpose in dwelling upon the point is to promote such a result. We ourselves have no senseless prejudice against the mere Democratic name, We are solicitous respecting things not names as distinguished from things. That which we call the conservative party, By any other name would smell as sweet.

Bes It appears after all that the main body f Gen. Buell's army has not been beyond Crab rchard. Gen. Crittenden's division pursued Bragg in vain beyond that point, Bragg having succeeded in getting nearly forty miles chard ever since they got there, three or four this, no efforts must be relaxed, no half wa days after the battle of Chaplin Hills.

It is thought that Buell does not intend following in the path of Bragg, who is now un oubtedly in Tennessee, but that he will prol ably go down by the way of Bowling Green to defend Nashville, to occupy Middle Tena misconception respecting the condition of nessee, and, if practicable, East Tennessee, driving out Bragg or at least preventing him as we conceive it may be very briefly stated. from accomplishing anything by a junction with Price, Van Dorn, and Breckinridge. It the North is between the Democratic party | would certainly be a curious spectacle if Buell and the Republican party. This is not strictly and Bragg were to manœuvre again in front correct. There really are at this time in the of each other in Tennessee for some months North but two great parties, the conservative and then make another race for the possession party and the radical party, the former em- of Louisville and repeat the whole of the

If Buell's army is to be subsisted in Middle conservative wing of the Republican party, Tennessee or in Alabama before the Cumber land and Tennessee rivers are in navigable condition, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad must be protected against the guerillas corruptionists in general, who, fattening on throughout its whole extent, be the cost what the public calamities, would gladly prolong it may. And there can be no effectual protection of it except by the utter extermination of the guerillas. Let these remain as numerous and bold as they now are, and an arm against each other in the several States of the of fifty-thousand men, with nothing else un-North, -in Massachusetts, for example, under | der heaven to do than to guard the road be tween Louisville and Nashville, could no half guard it. It certainly seems a great pity that such a vast army as the one we have in Kentuck cannot keep open its own base of supplies and give protection to its sick and wounded left behind. People may well be expected to open wide their eyes in blank astonishment at learning that the supply-trains of such a host and the sick and wounded in the rear are captured with impunity by a band of a few hundred guerillas moving to and fro, hither er, at will. John Morgan has been tolerated much too ong. His career should be closed if there is power to close it, and there is. But, to secur this result, a plan must be adopted. The work must not be left to scores of military bodies acting in no concert with each other. I should be made the special business of som inquestionably competent leader, and the whole needed force should be assigned to him to be used according to his discre tion. There may be several, all well qualified for the undertaking. The name of Wolford annot fail to suggest itself to every mind. We believe, that, if this bold, daring, and lashing warrior were entrusted with the com mand of a sufficient number of men of his own selection and told to make it his whole busi ness to exterminate Morgan and his gang, the job would be finished completely in three weeks. Thousands would be glad to see the iteresting experiment tried. The amount of mischief done by Morgan luring almost every week of his operations is well nigh incalculable. That he is still rovng at large is a reproach to the Federal arm n Kentucky. Let our troops, under some arangement or other, wipe out that reproach or be themselves wiped out in trying. Let not a great State and great armies within its border be kept perpetually alarmed, annoyed, harassed, and crippled, by a gang not more formidable in numbers and strength than a band of Bedouins in the Arabian deserts.

We heard of Dumont's cavalry hotly pursuing John Morgan's cavalry from Lexington through Versailles and on in the direction of Lawrenceburg in Anderson county. Since then we have heard of Morgan's cavalry spending most of last Sunday in Bloom onservative quarter. The radicals will of field and subsequently devoting several hours to the capture and destruction of a Federal supply-train this side of Bardstown, and hence going leisurely wherever they chose but, strange to say, we hear no word about the fiery pursuers. The latter, for aught that is known here, may have got lost in some for est or swamp and not been able to find thei

It is very possible that Dumont's cavalr were not swift-footed enough to overtake Mor gan's even with the utmost exertion, but the ould at least, it seems to us, have presse em so close as to give them no time to loung in villages and commit extensive depredation upon the property of the United States W. shouldn't be at all surprised to learn that Mon gan's men found leisure to capture and parol two thousand sick and wounded Union so diers who have been for several days at Bards town with no protection worthy of the name But we hope that no such mortifying intelligence is in store for us.

The main body of the rebels has been riven out of Kentucky. During the stay o Bragg, Buckner, & Co., in our State, they have eceived great aid and the warmest sympathy from citizens of our State. Why did they in rade our territory? The Jackson Mississip pian says: "We want Kentucky and Tenne see for the resources they would yield us. We need them—the time and events are propition Pour on the tide of war to their borders," &c They have obtained all our "resources" they could steal and carry away. Do they care for our people! We can never forget what he Memphis Avalanche proclaimed last fall: "We need the soil of Kentucky. Her people are not a necessity to us, but her territory is, and the South must have it at what ever cost of blood and treasure." The rebels have been followed out of the State by some of the people who were spoken of so slightly but our territory has not yet been subjugated

To accomplis policy pursued, no factious oppositi permitted, and no attempts to emba cass the administration for ulterio party advantages, must for one moment re ceive the sympathy of the loval conserva tives. All such conduct must be left, as we are sure it will be left, and as it has been left mainy heretofore, to those headlong radicals who lazon themselves the exclusive friends of the President.

[Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] CAMP NEAR PERRYVILLE, KY., FORTIETH REG'T IND. VOLS. I notice in your first statement of the Perry ille affair that Gen. Woods's division did no rrive on the ground until half an hour befor ark. This is a mistake. Gen. Woods's d ision arrived on the battle-field at 3 o'clock 2. M., and the 40th Indiana regiment, sup ported by Cox's battery, was swiftly move orward to sustain Gen. McCook's right wing, which was then falling back. The 40th Indi ana moved forward at double-quick for over mile, and took position on the right of Gen McCook in time to drive back three regiments of rebel infantry, who were attempting to g o McCook's and Gilbert's rear. The 40th d ployed a large body of skirmishers and folowed these three regiments one mile and a quarter, killing and wounding a large number. Cox's battery was soon in position and ilenced two rebel batteries, who were shelling he position held by the 40th Indiana. There is no doubt but the timely arrival of Gen Woods's division and of the 40th Indiana pre vented these three rebel regiments from gain ing the rear of McCook's corps. Col. Blake, of the 40th, was where danger was most abso ute, and led his men farward. The 40th Inliana was the only regiment of Gen. Woods's division engaged with the enemy in the battle

The English lady who has a mania for llecting the stamps of all nations in an aloum will have to procure ninety-five different kinds, which are used under our tax law and expend $196 53 to purchase one of each kind.

In the battle of Corinth, the rebels utnumbered us two to one. Perhaps they might have whipped Rosecrans, but the per verse Dutchman didn't count them.

Bes If our armies want to be very warm indeed this winter, let them go into winterquarters. The people will make the quarters oo hot to hold them. We would not obtrude our personal sorrows upon the public, but surely every person of taste will read with delight the three divine spirit of poetry that pervades them: (For the Louisville Journal.)

ROSEREATH, KY., 14th October, 1862. M. R. M. [For the Louisville Journal.] IN MEMORIAM. WILLIAM COURTLAND PRENTIC Inscribed to his Bereaved Mother and Father The mystic Book is rent apart

Of thy brief life. Its leaves reveal Thou hast out-soared our longing cries ar arms that held thee in love's bond the mystery of death's veiled Beyond

Is plain before thy soul's clear eves Was struck, and, sudden as a thought.

Thy life's bright flame was heavenward caugh Its ember sleeps beneath the sod! Sleeps, unforgotten, overblown With red leaves shed like tears of blood

By wild October, whose fierce mood Beloved, lying cold and lone.

The snow-pale flower upon thy breast Is God's unwithering Flower of Rest Nursed by the angels near His thron

Sleep then! Though sorrowing throbs repeat Thy name in hearts where thou art missed. Thy lips, by breathless silence kissed Move nevermore in answer sweet, Yet God is love and we believe

Thy soul by mercy freed, forgiven, Was borne through death to Mercy's heave Then wherefore dare we thus to griev Or why doth sunlight seem so dim?

r night so dark 'mid starry flame? Te know not. We but know God's name Is Love, and trust all else to Him. [For the Louisville Journal.]

WILLIAM COURTLAND PRENTICE. Taken away! Taken away by the God that wisely loved him What though he erred? hall not the heart be touched, the harp be heard? Was he not brave?

THE LAST MORGAN RAID .- We furnish elsewhere some of the details of the rebel Morgan's exploits after his departure from Cox's Creek on Monday morning. We have had interviews with a number of gentlemen who were captured with the train at Cox's Creek. and their statements are substantially to the sime effect. The report that a sick teamster who was unable to rise from his couch, was shot for refusing to rise, is verified, and the ody of the murdered man was afterwards burned by the rebel vandals.

After the teamsters and guard, to the number of nearly three hundred, were paroled, they were marched in front of a cavalry company in the direction of Lebanon Junction, and were required to perform the journey on foot, the greater portion of the way in doublequick time. On the route three of the paroled Federal prisoners were wantonly shot and killed upon shallow pretexts. A youth who belonged to an Illinois regiment, who had been captured and formally paroled by Gen. Kirby Smith, was thus murdered simply because he exhibited his parole and claimed the rights which belong to a paroled prisoner.

Lieut. Harry Choate, of Company E, Sixth Ohio Infantry, and Lieut. Richard Neff, of the Fourth Ohio Cavalry, who left this city on Sunday to join their commands, were captured by Morgan, and were among the paroled prisoners who arrived last evening. When within three miles of Bardstown they rode into the centre of John Morgan's cavalry and were captured. The rebels carried them over a circuit of twelve miles, and when they arrived at a point four miles south of Bardstown, threw out pickets and sent Company E. of Brady's Kentucky scouts to Cox's Creek, where they captured the wagons, one hundred and greater number. Five hundred mules were turned loose, but the rebels kept the horses On Monday morning Messrs. Choate and Neff were carried seventeen miles towards Eliza bethtown, as they had refused to be paroled They were paroled on the road between Boston and Elizabethtown, however, and were allowed to return.

The rebels afterwards entered Elizabethtown without resistance, where they broke into the Post-office and took possession of the contents Two Federal regiments arrived there shortly afterward, and drove them out, killing four and capturing one Lieutenant, who was

No damage had been done to the railroad, other than the destruction of the trestle-work two miles beyond Elizabethtown, which will be repaired in a day or two. Mr. W. A. Ronald, the route agent on the road, brought up a portion of the mail that had been robbed by Morgan at Elizabethtown, in which there is a large number of mutilated letters. among the paroled prisoners who returned he city last evening were eight persons, who had been despatched to Perryville by the Sanitary Commission of Chicago with clothing, hospital supplies, &c., for the wounded Illinoisians. All their supplies were either destroyed with the train at Cox's Creek or were carried away by the rebels. Gen. Dumonl, who passed through this city last evening on his way to Indiana, says that Col. Kennett is in Morgan's front with a strong cavalry force, and that his (Dumont's) cavalry are in his rear, and that there is a strong prob ability that Morgan's forces will be captured We do not "see it in that way," and have no doubt that the robber rebel has made good his THEATRE.-This evening Mr. Couldock re

Early in 1861, when civil war seemed pendng but had not actually broken out, Ge-cott wrote two papers containing his view rofessional and political, on the crisis and the ghts and duties which devolve on the g nment in the momentous juncture. On em has recently been published, without riter's consent; the second appears to-aving been furnished to the press. It inablishes in the first place the patriotic anxi-of the General-in-Chief to prepare for coming storm, and his earnest and peated efforts to prevail on the Governm o garrison and secure the Southern for ne second place, the causes of his fail which it is now evident resulted from the i oubtless mislead by treachery in the Sec net, in whom the head of the Government i osed and misplaced confidence.

GUERILLAS ON THE LOWER MISSISSIPPI.-WE ind in the Memphis Bulletin an account of the attack on the steamer Continental on the 6th instant. About ten o'clock that day, as hat boat, laden with passengers and freight rom above, was passing Island 21, below Point Pleasant, a blank shot was fired across er bow, from the Arkansas side, to bring her nto shore. No heed was paid to the summons nd she passed on. Presently about fifty men vere seen in sight, all beckoning for her to and, but Captain O'Neal didn't heed the sumnons, when a twelve-pound shot was fired at er, striking the water about ten feet below ne boat, glancing upward, and penetrating ne "hold" about a foot above the water mark odging in a bale of hay. Of course the Con tinental "put out" from that place, but no efore another shot, striking near her stern, nad been fired at her. The damage to the ontinental was fortunately trivial. The teamer John H. Dickey was about eight or en miles behind the Continental, and there are some apprehensions felt for her safety. Passengers on the Continental think she might ave been captured; but others, knowing tha he had Government stores and a number o roops on board, rather indulge the opinion that, if fired upon, she may have stopped while the soldiers on her "cleaned out" the guerillas and captured their gun. The Forest Queen, bound up with troops, may also have taken a turn at them. A paroled Federal prisoner who arrive in this city vesterday informs us that a counci of war was held by the rebel Generals in Ker tucky after the receipt of the intelligence tha General Buell's army had left Louisville in oursuit of the rebel forces. We learn from im that, with the exception of Gen. Bragg, the rebel Generals all favored the plan of making a stand at Camp Dick Robinson. Our nformant says that General Buckner was strongly opposed to the evacuation of the state, and that he almost shed tears when he realized that he was again to become an exile.

ARRIVAL OF RELEASED PRISONERS. - Gen. rentiss, together with over one hundred in ferior officers, who were captured by the rebels in the battle of Shiloh, in April last, arrived in Pittsburg at noon, on Sunday, on their way West. Those officers represent the states of Kentucky, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois Wisconsin, and Minnesota, and having ob ained thirty days leave of absence they are ow on a visit to their friends. They left on he Sunday night train for the West. Notwithstanding their long imprisonment, all these officers look in fine health and spirits.

It was the practice for French sovereigns, from the time of Clo vis in the fifth, to Charles X in the nineteentl century, to profess great respect for the church and its clergy, and outwardly to manifest pro found belief in its doctrines. Even Loui XIV and Louis XV, with all their moral delinquencies, made a point of appear ing devout - in public. Louis Phillippe who, with all his faults, was not a hypocrite, allowed only the female members o his family (wife, sister, and daughters) to play the part of devotees, and therefore neve succeeded in conciliating the good will of the clergy. Far different has been the policy o the present Napoleon .- From the time of his being elected President, in 1848, until now he has taken much pains to have the clergy on his side; in April, 1849, he sent a military ex pedition to rescue Rome from the hands of the Mazzinians; he restored the Pope to Rome which French troops have ever since garrison ed; and, in a word, has been unremitting in his endeavors to be considered, like a Bourbon Sovereign, "First Son of the Church," and addressed from the Vatican, as his "Most Christian Majesty.'

It suited Napoleon, for political purposes, t war with Russia in 1854.'55, and with Austria, in Italy, in 1859. When he showed these Powers that he was sufficiently formidable to be dreaded as a foe or secured as a friend, he held out the olive branch, giving them far better terms than they could reasonably expect, under the circumstances. In and what remained of the States of the Church to have, after long centuries of disunian one taken to have after long centuries of disunian one taken to have after long centuries of disunian one taken to have after long centuries of disunian one taken to have after long centuries of disunian one taken to have a few and what remained of the States of the Church to have, after long centuries of disunion, one Italy for the Italians. Garibaldi, a few months ago, again raised his banner, and called on force of "or." Italians to aid him in obtaining possession of armed by an act of amnesty.

Victor Emmanuel probably has as much for desire as Garibaldi to see Rome the capital of regenerated Italy. But he has to bide his time. Rome is garrisoned by French troops, a collision with whom is to be avoided, as it might lead to a rupture with Napoleon, whose Italian policy is inscrutable. No doubt Natime. Rome is garrisoned by French troops, poleon acts with a settled purpose, though his policy appears capricious at times. Thus, he gravely suggests the likelihood of the Pope's being obliged to quit Rome, and yet mainbeing obliged to quit Rome, and yet maintains him there by aid of French bayonets. He cannot forget, it would seem, that the Papacy is one of the oldest sovereignties in Europe-a bishopric from Linus, in the year from 607, when the Emperor Phocas conceded to Boniface III supremacy over all Christian churches. The Popes have had their temporal lominions—sometimes more, sometimes lessever since the Empire of the West was trans ferred to Constantinople; and though Pius IX lost much of his territory by the events of 1859, he is still a temporal prince, as well as a Catholic prelate. Napoleon seems unwilling to deprive him of the small residue of his do main, which includes Rome, so much coveted by Victor Emmanuel as his proper capital.

Hall. Butteres naving statis in several places in a town or city, where they sell meat, require a pedlers' licenses.

Recently, in a Paris journal known to be under his influence, and said to express his opinions, the following was published as the | hand unsold. basis of a new settlement of Italy:

I. Division of Italy into three States, united by a federative tie. II. European guarantee of the Pontifical territory, formed of the city of Rome and of the patrimony of St. Peter. III. Reserve in favor of the Pope, of his sovereignty over the Marches and Umbria, and of a tribute which should be paid him out of the seconds of these provinces, the administrarevenues of those provinces, the administra-tion of which should remain entrusted to one of the two Sovereigns. IV. Military, diplo matle, juridical custom house, and monetary union among all the States of Italy.

This proposition would not please Victor Emanuel, would not satisfy the Italians, would scarcely be received with favor by the Pope. To make the complication still worse, England has represented to France (that is, Palmersto has told Napoleon), that the time has arrived for ceasing to meddle in Italian affairs, and that Victor Emanuel should be allowed to obtain Rome, if he can, his character of a Christien Prince being the guarantee that, on occupying it, he would pay the greatest respect to he clerical status of the Pope, and promptly endow him and his successors with a sufficient and liberal appanage. This, however, would deprive Pins IX of all temporal power. What answer Napoleon may have given to Palmerston has not transpired. Palmerston's message is threatening to a certain extent, virtually implying, if you do not help the Italians we shall. On Napoleon's reply, therefore may hang the moment of the Tuileries, from the first has he moment of the Tuileries, from the first has he moment of the Tuileries, from the first has he moment of the first has he may be a first has he may France and England. In case of war between these countries it would be difficult for Austria and Prussia, and even Russia, to keep out of it. To our own country, battling for the of a war, on this Italian question, between great cause of good government and human freedom, this question is mainly of interest from the fact that a war between France and England would so occurrent. of it. To our own country, battling for the England would so occupy them as to prevent of the war might, before this, have brought the interference of either in American affairs. We do not believe that Palmerston cares a crooked sixpence for Italy or for freedom, but there is a strong current of public opinion in England just now in favor of the unity of Italy, at the bottom of which is much antipapal intolerance, and Palmerston may fear that to resist this might hazard the dearest about an armistice, and that both North and South would have called in foreign powers, with a view to reconciliation. But as the war goes on the contending camps become less in men and more inhuman. The latest despatches which reach the Government of this country do not, I am told, hold out any alternative for a close of the war, but the exhaustion of both North and South would have called in foreign powers, with a view to reconciliation. FOR THE SICK AND WOUNDED. Under an order from the President of the Un tates, a national system has been established by th Sanitary Commission for the safe transmission as udicious distribution of articles contributed by the people for the sick and wounded of the army and navy The system, after being well tried, has been formally approved and recommended by the President, the Ge eral in Chief, and the Surgeon General. The secu it offers against misappropriation is practically per ntil the contributions are delivered in the hos where they necessarily pass from the control of the Commission. Of more than a million of articles sen hrough one of the largest of its channels of supply, i has been ascertained that not one hundred have carried or been dishonestly used. Discreet and true livisions of the army, including those on the Sout coast, the Mississippi, and the Western frontier, tobserve their wants; to direct supplies where they are most needed, and to secure as far as practicable the honest use. The Commission does not undertake deliver articles to individuals, and declines to rece contributions with any restriction as to their destina-tion within the limits of the force employed in the ser vice of the nation, it being one of its secondary object The distribution of hospital supplies is but a branc professional talent which can be obtained in the co wheat has defined on saturably, othing in the leaf at $3 75 per bushel.
